Christiane Lyons: Some Women – A Total Portrait with No Omissions at Meliksetian I Briggs.

Lyons's painting practice is driven by an ongoing investigation into the cognitive and non-linguistic processes used in interpreting imagery. Primarily using paint as a medium, she recontextualizes appropriated imagery to provoke new meanings and visual interpretations. Directly utilizing content from art history she re-addresses the issue of painting's importance as part of the canon, confronting the primary elements of paint, such as line and form, representation and abstraction, and color. 313 N. Fairfax, West Hollywood; Opening reception: Saturday, January 29, 6-8pm; On view through March 19; free; meliksetianbriggs.com.
